The District of Columbia Collateral Support Program is part of the U.S. Treasury's State Small Business Credit Initiative created by the Small Business Jobs Act of 2010. The Treasury has allocated $1.5 billion nationally to create or expand small businesses, with $13.2 million for District businesses. The Department of Insurance, Securities and Banking will use the money for several small-business finance programs. The D.C. Collateral Support Program is the first.

The program provides capital to small businesses with insufficient collateral for a loan by depositing cash collateral with lenders (bank, credit union or community development financial institution), who in turn, loan to these businesses. Creditworthy small businesses can use these loans to buy equipment and inventory; for expansions or renovations; working capital; start-up costs; leasehold improvements; or refinancing. By leveraging the capital of private lenders, the program makes more capital available to District small businesses.

Contact your banker about the program.
